

Contents

Dedication and Acknowledgements	iii	A New Facilitator: Competition	32
Contents	v	Slalom and Wildwater Competition	36
Introduction	ix	Competition's Other Facilitators	39
Preface	xi	AWWA: Cornerstone for Whitewater	45
 		To encourage exploration...of wilderness waterways...	47
View from the Bridge: 1945	1	To foster research...for safely negotiating whitewater...	52
The View from a Canoe	1	To protect the wilderness character of our waterways...	53
Further Upstream	5	For bringing together ideas, procedures, and experiences	54
The View from a Kayak	7	Building on the Cornerstones: the Growing Infrastructure	60
Further Upstream	11	New England	61
 		Mid-Atlantic	62
The Infrastructure Building Years: Post World War II Through the '50s	15	Southeast	67
New Materials and Construction	16	Midwest	68
Aluminum	5	Inter-Mountains	68
Fiberglass	7	California	70
The Earliest Facilitators: the Cornerstone Clubs	21	Pacific Northwest	71
East Coast	22	Canada	72
West Coast	26	Whitewater's Industry	73
The Inter-Mountains: Colorado and Utah	29	View from the Bridge	75

Toward the Diverging River: the '60s	77
Competition	78
European Influence	78
New Cornerstones	78
The Racers and the Races	89
Competition's Other Benefactors: Design, Technique, and Boat Building	98
Design	99
Technique	104
Boat Building	109
Cruising	112
West Virginia	114
The Southeast	119
The Sierras	121
Whitewater's Cornerstone: AWA	122
Conservation	126
Safety	128
The Growing Industry	130
Books	130
Boats and Gear	133
The Divergence: The Real Impact of the Olympic Announcement	137
Commercial Rafting in the East	137
Blackadar	139
View from the Bridge	140

The Golden Age of Paddling: the '70s	141
The Rains of the Summer of '72	142
The First Olympics	142
Deliverance	146
Blackadar	147
A Subsequent Deluge	153
The New Face of the Industry	158
Blue Hole	158
Perception	160
A Competing Composite Manufacturer: HIPP	163
The Rest of the Industry	166
The Effects of Growth on the Rest of the Sport	177
River Running	178
Safety and Conservation	181
Blackadar's Legacy	192
Women	194
The Road to Jonquierre (Competition's Hidden Legacies)	195
America's Kayak Design: the Slipper	197
America's C-2 Innovation: the Gemini	199
America's C-1 Design and Technique Innovations	200
Competition's Legacies: Two New Sports	204
Squirt	204
Rodeo	205
View from the Bridge	205

Plastics and Playboating: the '80s	207	Whitewater, the Next Generation: the '90s	285
The New Facilitators: the Industry (Plastic Manufacturers)	208	The Industry (Kayak Manufacturers) and Rodeo Playboats	287
Perception	211	Toward Flat Hulls and Short Boats	289
Other Plastic Kayak Manufacturers	217	Flat Hulls and Short Boats	295
Plastic Short Canoe Manufacturers	222	River Running Boats	303
Squirtboating	229	The Rest of the Industry	313
Whittemore	232	Composite Manufacturers	314
Jim Snyder	235	Paddling Schools	314
A Niche Market	237	Multimedia	316
The Rest of the Industry	241	Competition	318
Composite Manufacturers	242	Slalom	318
Paddling Schools	243	Rodeo to Freestyle	326
Multimedia	245	Extreme Races	332
The Changing Roles of the Old Facilitators: AWA and ACA	247	AWA and ACA	334
AWA	247	AWA to American Whitewater	334
ACA	252	ACA	338
Conservation	255	Safety and River Rescue	343
The Gauley	260	Accidents	344
Safety and River Rescue	262	Conservation	350
Safety Concerns and the Industry	267	The Gauley	358
The '80s in Competition: Slalom	270
America's Decade of C-1 Domination in Slalom	271	Epilogue	361
The New Competition: American Style	275	Appendix A: National Champions	363
Rodeo and Squirt	275	Appendix B: American Individual Medalists for World and Olympic Slalom	369
Extreme Races	278	Appendix C: American Individual Medalists for World Wildwater	373
Women and the Sub-Sports	279	References	375
View from the Bridge	281		